

MEET THE CONIFERS

Conifers are trees with cones. There are many kinds, and they grow almost everywhere. Why not see which ones grow near you.

Helpful Things to Take Along

- Field guide to trees
- Crayons or markers
- Magnifying glass

Go outside and find two different conifers you'd like to meet, and record your observations about them below. Draw each tree in one of the boxes. Give it a name if you like—either its scientific name or one you make up. Then write down some of the things that make it different from other trees.
